Dear Parents

Today is World Teachers' Day!!! This is also known as International Teachers' Day, and is held every year on 05 October to honour teachers and recognise their contributions to education and development. Our Grade sixes began this week by handing out a thank you card to every teacher.

They then organised a different activity for each day this week to ensure that our teachers felt loved and appreciated. This ranged from 'give your teacher a treat' to 'take a selfie with your teacher'.

I am sure all our parents will agree that Japari has a team of truly exceptional teachers that coach, inspire, guide and nurture all our children to achieve to the best of their ability and support each child's success. A huge thank you to all our wonderful teachers!!!

The Grade sevens held a very successful market day last Friday.

As promised photos of this very enjoyable event can be found in this newsletter. A big thank you to our Grade seven Moms and Dads who helped behind the scenes to ensure success was achieved. I fear that with all the delicious sweets, cakes and eats on offer, productivity levels of our children decreased rapidly after second break!!
